The Doors of Perception

by Aldous Huxley

The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;—
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!

This Sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The Winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;

It moves us not.—Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;

Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathèd horn.

Mescaline

by Henry Miller

I have seen the world through mescaline,
And it is a world of wonder and delight.
The colors are more vivid, the sounds are more musical,
And the textures are more tactile.

I have seen the world through mescaline, And it is a world of beauty and mystery. The flowers are more fragrant, the animals are more graceful, And the people are more loving.

I have seen the world through mescaline, And it is a world of peace and harmony. The wars are over, the poverty is gone, And the people are living in brotherhood.

I Am the Walrus

by John Lennon

I am the walrus, Goo goo g'joob.

I am the eggman, They are the eggmen.

I am the walrus, Goo goo g'joob.

I am the eggman, They are the eggmen.

I am the walrus, Goo goo g'joob.

I am the eggman, They are the eggmen.

I am the walrus, Goo goo g'joob.

I am the eggman, They are the eggmen.
