1. Invest in early childhood education

Investing in early childhood education is one of the most important things we can do to improve the lives of all Americans. Studies have shown that children who participate in high-quality early childhood education programs are more likely to succeed in school, have higher incomes, and commit fewer crimes. They are also more likely to be healthy and productive members of society.

There are a number of ways to invest in early childhood education, including:

- Expanding access to preschool
- Improving the quality of preschool programs
- Providing financial assistance to families with young children

2. Improve access to affordable housing

Everyone deserves to have a safe and affordable place to live. However, for many Americans, finding affordable housing is a challenge. The cost of housing has been rising steadily for decades, outpacing wages. This has made it difficult for many families to afford a home, and has led to an increase in homelessness.

There are a number of ways to improve access to affordable housing, including:

- Building more affordable housing
- Providing rent subsidies to low-income families
- Enacting policies that protect tenants from eviction

3. Expand access to healthcare

Healthcare is a basic human right. However, in the United States, healthcare is often unaffordable for many people. This is due to the high cost of health insurance, as well as the high cost of medical care.

There are a number of ways to expand access to healthcare, including:

- Expanding Medicaid
- Creating a public option for health insurance
- Regulating the cost of prescription drugs

4. Address climate change

Climate change is one of the most pressing challenges facing our planet. The effects of climate change are already being felt around the world, in the form of rising sea levels, more extreme weather events, and changing plant and animal life.

There are a number of ways to address climate change, including:

- Reducing greenhouse gas emissions
- Investing in renewable energy
- Improving energy efficiency

5. Reduce gun violence

Gun violence is a major problem in the United States. Every year, thousands of Americans are killed or injured in gun-related incidents. This is a tragedy, and it is something that we must address.

There are a number of ways to reduce gun violence, including:

- Enacting universal background checks

- Banning assault weapons and high-capacity magazines
- Investing in mental health services

6. Reform the criminal justice system

The criminal justice system in the United States is in need of reform. The system is racially biased, and it is too often used to punish people for nonviolent crimes. This is a waste of human potential, and it is something that we must change.

There are a number of ways to reform the criminal justice system, including:

- Ending mass incarceration
- Reducing racial disparities in the criminal justice system
- Investing in restorative justice programs

7. Promote economic opportunity

Everyone deserves the opportunity to succeed in life. However, for many Americans, economic opportunity is out of reach. This is due to a number of factors, including discrimination, lack of access to education and training, and the high cost of childcare.

There are a number of ways to promote economic opportunity, including:

- Enacting policies that prevent discrimination
- Investing in education and training programs
- Providing financial assistance to low-income families

8. Protect democracy

Democracy is a precious thing. It is a system of government that is based on the consent of the governed. However, democracy is under threat around the world, including in the United States.

There are a number of ways to protect democracy, including:

- Protecting the right to vote
- Fighting against corruption
- Promoting civic engagement

9. Address racial inequality

Racial inequality is a major problem in the United States. People of color face discrimination in every aspect of life, from education to housing to healthcare. This is a moral injustice, and it is something that we must address.

There are a number of ways to address racial inequality, including:

- Ending mass incarceration
- Reducing racial disparities in education, housing, and healthcare
- Investing in minority-owned businesses

10. Promote gender equality

Gender equality is essential for a just and equitable society. However, women and girls still face discrimination in many areas of life, from the workplace to the political arena.

There are a number of ways to promote gender equality, including:

- Enacting policies that prevent discrimination against women
- Investing in women's education and empowerment
- Promoting gender equality in the workplace and in the political arena

11. Protect LGBTQ+ rights

LGBTQ+ people face discrimination in many areas of life, from housing to employment to healthcare. This is a violation of their human rights, and it is something that we must address.

There are a number of ways to protect LGBTQ+ rights, including:

- Enacting laws that prevent discrimination against LGBTQ+ people
- Promoting LGBTQ+ visibility and representation
- Supporting LGBTQ+ organizations

12. Promote religious freedom

Religious freedom is a fundamental right. However, religious freedom is under threat around the world, including in the United States.

There are a number of ways to promote religious freedom, including:

- Protecting the right to practice one's religion freely
- Fighting against religious discrimination
- Promoting interfaith dialogue

13. Improve the quality of education

Education is the key to success in life. However, the quality of education in the United States is uneven. Some schools are excellent, while others are failing. This is a problem that we must address.

There are a number of ways to improve the quality of education, including:

- Investing in early childhood education
- Improving teacher training and development
- Raising standards for schools

14. Reduce poverty
