Laurel is a successful lawyer who has always put her career first. She's intelligent, ambitious, and driven. But she's also lonely. She's never been able to find a man who can keep up with her, both intellectually and emotionally.

One day, Laurel meets David, a brilliant surgeon who is everything she's ever wanted in a man. He's smart, handsome, and charming. But he's also married. Laurel knows that she can't have a relationship with David, but she can't help herself from falling in love with him.

Laurel and David begin an affair. They meet in secret, and they pretend that they're married. They pretend that they're happy. But they're not. Laurel knows that she's living a lie, and she's afraid that she's going to get caught.

One day, Laurel's husband finds out about her affair. He's furious, and he demands a divorce. Laurel is devastated. She doesn't want to lose her husband, but she also doesn't want to give up David.

Laurel is torn between her head and her heart. She knows that she should end her affair with David, but she can't bring herself to do it. She loves him too much. Laurel is trapped in a web of her own deception, and she doesn't know how to get out.
