The Drowning Man is the 12th book in the Wind River Mystery series by C.J. Box. It was published in 2019 and is set in Wyoming.

The book follows the investigation of Wyoming game warden Joe Pickett into the death of a young Native American woman found drowned in the Wind River. The woman, Marie Ironwood, was a member of the Northern Arapaho tribe and her death is quickly ruled a suicide by the local authorities.

However, Joe Pickett is not convinced that Marie Ironwood took her own life. He begins his own investigation and soon uncovers a complex web of secrets and lies. He learns that Marie Ironwood was involved in a relationship with a white man, something that was forbidden by her tribe. He also learns that she was pregnant at the time of her death.

As Joe Pickett digs deeper into the case, he uncovers a dark secret that could have far-reaching consequences. He discovers that Marie Ironwood was the victim of a murder and that her death was staged to look like a suicide.

The Drowning Man is a thrilling mystery that will keep you guessing until the very end. C.J. Box does an excellent job of creating a complex and suspenseful plot that will keep you on the edge of your seat.

Characters

- Joe Pickett: A Wyoming game warden who investigates the death of Marie Ironwood.
