A Theatre Steeped in History

Founded in 1898 by Konstantin Stanislavski and Vladimir Nemirovich-Danchenko, the MAT emerged as a revolutionary force, breaking away from the conventional theatrical practices of the time.

Stanislavski, known as the "father of modern acting," developed his eponymous method, emphasizing realism, emotional truth, and meticulous preparation. This approach, known as the Stanislavski System, has profoundly influenced generations of actors and directors worldwide.

The MAT also became synonymous with the Chekhov System, formulated by Anton Chekhov, a renowned playwright and MAT actor. This approach focused on ensemble playing, subtly nuanced emotions, and the exploration of everyday life.

Theatre Production Studies at the MAT

Today, the Moscow Art Theatre offers a comprehensive range of theatre production studies programs, perpetuating the legacy of Stanislavski and Chekhov.

The flagship program is the Acting Course, a rigorous four-year program that immerses students in the Stanislavski System and other foundational acting techniques.

In addition to acting, the MAT also offers specialized programs in Scenography, Costume Design, Lighting Design, and Sound Design. These programs provide students with in-depth training in the technical and artistic aspects of theatre production.
